

Jeremy Ramage, PT, MPT, NCS

Jeremy graduated from Saint Louis University in 1998 with a Master of Physical Therapy degree. He has practiced across a wide range of settings, including outpatient care, acute care, inpatient rehabilitation, and home health.

He currently serves as the Senior Therapist for TriHealth's PROS interdisciplinary outpatient rehabilitation program. Jeremy has been an active member of the American Physical Therapy Association's Neurologic Section since 2005 and earned his Neurologic Clinical Specialist (NCS) certification from the American Board of Physical Therapy Specialties in 2007, which he renewed in 2017.

Jeremy brings extensive expertise in treating a broad spectrum of neurologic conditions, including stroke, traumatic brain injury and concussion, multiple sclerosis, Ehlers-Danlos syndrome, and vestibular disorders, holding AIB certification in vestibular rehabilitation. He has presented continuing education courses for TriHealth staff and has served as a guest lecturer for physical therapy and athletic training programs at Mount St. Joseph University, the University of Cincinnati, and Xavier University.

Jeremy is passionate about helping patients at all levels achieve their recovery goals and return to meaningful activities.
